

Abstract.

The present invention relates to chelate-fluorophore conjugates and their use in monitoring binding reactions between a chelate and a macromolecular biological binding agent, such as an antibody. Such monitoring is used both to identify anti-chelate antibodies that have a desired metal selectivity and to configure immunoassays that provide a means of detecting and quantitating a given metal ion.

5

00602T 108E260